FAVA One Health Fukuoka Office signed MOU with OISCA Nishi-Nippon Training Center for One Health

On December 12, 2024, FAVA One Health Fukuoka Office concluded an agreement with OISCA Nishi-Nippon Training Center regarding collaboration and cooperation in promoting One Health.

【The Organization for Industrial, Spiritual and Cultural Advancement-International】

This is an international Non-Governmental Organization (NGO) headquartered in Japan, operating in 41 countries and regions. It primarily conducts rural development and environmental conservation activities in the Asia-Pacific region. In Japan, the organization participates in environmental conservation activities through agricultural and forestry experiences, afforestation, and forest maintenance. Additionally, vegetables grown at its training center have obtained One Health certification in Fukuoka Prefecture.

〈Philosophy〉

Recognizing that every life is intimately connected and that their source is the universe, the ideal world is one in which all people live together, overcoming differences in nationality, ethnicity, language, religion, and culture, and seek to protect and nurture the foundation of all life on earth.

【Isao Kurauchi, President of FOF: Comments】

“We hope that by incorporating One Health into OISCA's training activities, students will acquire agricultural skills and become doctors who will protect the health of our planet.”

【Kaneaki Hirose, Director, OISCA Nishi-Nippon Training Center: Comments】

“We aim to integrate the One Health with OISCA's philosophy and instill awareness of One Health in our trainees as they engage in activities.”

【Seitaro Hattori, Governor of Fukuoka Prefecture: Comments】

“Fukuoka Prefecture will do everything in its power to engage in One Health activities so that we can pass on this beautiful planet to our future generations.”
